

Kainalu Library News - December

By: Mrs. Morel

Slowly but surely, progress is being made on the collection at the Kainalu library. Book supports have been added to each shelf to help keep the spines of our books strong and the shelves looking neat. The picture books are getting the first initial of the author's last name added with large letters to make finding and replacing the books easier for little hands. The Early Reader collection is also getting a redo; "ER" stickers are being added to the top of the spines to distinguish them from the picture books and higher reading level fiction books. New titles are continuously being added to the collection, many of which are Caldecott and Newbery winners and honor books from the past several years. Look for them on shelves in the corner near where the "gutter shelves" begin. Holiday books are also being displayed on the shelves as you enter the library. Happy reading!
